Deadline nears for filing taxes

Chris Rasmussen
Leader Staff

Time is running out! Only 12 days remain before the deadline to file federal income taxes. And whether you are a new Soldier, spouse of a deployed warrior or a retiree, the Fort Jackson Tax Center is working hard to provide last-minute counseling and filing services.

This year all tax returns must be post-marked by April 15. Last year, taxpayers were given a two-day extension because the 15th fell on a Saturday.

New Soldiers and retirees are making up the majority of customers this year for the free tax-preparation service.

"We tend to do a lot of counseling for the elderly because in many cases no one has taken the time to show them how," said Staff Sgt. Thaddeus Robinson, Tax Center noncommissioned officer in charge.

The center also specializes in counseling young Soldiers who need help to file their returns.

"Most of them are 17 or 18 and the Army is their first job," Robinson said. "We show them the ins and outs."

Spouses of deployed Soldiers from Fort Jackson, who already face enough challenges, do not tend to have problems filing their returns. The vast majority are given powers of attorney before their Soldier is deployed, making it much easier to file their taxes, according to Capt. Ryan Dodd, Fort Jackson Tax Center officer in charge.

Soldiers who need last-minute help filing their federal income taxes in time for the April 15 deadline are encouraged to make appointments with the Fort Jackson Tax Center, which also provides free counseling and preparation to retirees and family members.

"We rarely run into a spouse who comes in without a power of attorney," Dodd said. "They are doing a great job in

Ask the Garrison Commander

Getting married while PCSing; pools, hours

Q I plan to get married after I complete Advanced Individual Training, while I am on leave en route to my permanent duty station overseas. Can I add my spouse to my orders authorizing government transportation to my new duty station?

A Soldiers who acquire family members after the “effective date of orders” are not entitled to transportation at government expense. However, if PCSing overseas, they are eligible for space available transportation to the overseas location. Upon approval from the overseas command for sponsorship of the family members, the Soldier’s overseas command will issue a memorandum authorizing space available travel per Army Regulation 55-46, Appendix C, Figure C-6.

Q I am a family member at Fort Jackson. What pools are open this summer and what are the hours?

A The Palmetto Falls Water Park will open May 24, and the hours of operation are: closed Mondays; from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m., Tuesday through Saturdays and holidays; and 1-7 p.m., Sundays. The Spray Park will open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., May 1-23 with no admission.

Legion Swimming Pool opens June 7, and the hours of operation are: from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., Mondays and Saturdays; and 1-6 p.m., Sundays.

Knight Indoor Pool remains open year-round from 6 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 4:30-7 p.m., Monday through Friday.
For adult and youth swim lesson dates and times call 751-4796.

Garrison Fact of the Week

The Lazy River at Palmetto Falls is 800 linear feet long with two speed slides and one serpentine slide. Palmetto Falls also features a splash pool for younger children, as well as a spray park.

Drinking + driving = dangerously dumb idea

COMMENTARY

Col. Garland H. Williams
Army News Service

FORT BELVOIR, Va. — During a recent church service, our chaplain asked us to pray for a Fort Belvoir family whose brother had come to visit.
During the brother’s stay, he was killed by a drunken driver.
The chaplain’s call to prayer encouraged me to think about my own experiences with drunken drivers.
One of my resolutions for the New Year is to not get hit again by drunken drivers. That seems an unusual resolution, sure, but my family was affected twice last year by drunken drivers.

In February 2007, a drunken driver leaving the Officers’ Club here hit my car, which was parked in front of my house.
The driver was so drunk, she didn’t even know she’d hit anything. She actually tried to drive away.
Everybody was lucky there were no injuries as a result of this accident, but that drunken driver caused $7,000 in damages to my car, damaged the axle on her car, and still skidded 75 feet — all in a 15 mph zone.
All she could say to me as she was being handcuffed by the military police was, “I’m sorry.”

Two days after Christmas, my family and I decided to go out for dinner. On our way to the restaurant, the car we were in was rear-ended by a drunken driver.
This time, the damage to my car took second place to the more important results of that accident.
My family had been in the car, and both my children were injured — each had a bad case of whiplash and one had a terrible headache from hitting the ceiling of the car.
The other driver — the drunken driver — blew a .34 on the breathalyzer test. And as with the last drunken driver I had encountered, all she could say to me as she was taken away in handcuffs by the police was, “I’m sorry.”

I’m sorry, but, “I’m sorry,” isn’t good enough anymore.
This is my fifth command in 27 years of service and I can’t tell you how many Article 15s and courts-martial I have been involved in with a charge of driving under the influence.
When are we going to wake up? If you think you can drink and then safely drive, you are wrong — dead wrong.
My heart goes out to the family our chaplain asked us to pray for, and I wish I could find that driver to tell him or her that, “I’m sorry,” isn’t going to bring that gentleman back.
The bottom line is that drinking and driving is dangerous and a dumb idea — so don’t do it.

Special cooperative hits 40th year

Julia Simpkins
Public Affairs Staff

For the 40th year, special athletes from throughout the state will compete in a various challenges at Fort Jackson May 2-4 at the South Carolina Special Olympics.

Hosted by the 3rd Battalion, 13th Infantry Regiment, 193rd Infantry Brigade, this year's activities will kick off with an opening ceremony May 2 at the MG Robert B. Solomon Center.

Nearly 1,000 athletes, civilian volunteer coaches and Soldiers will watch as military police and a mounted patrol from the Richland County Sheriff's Office escort the torch bearer to the Olympic torch stand — officially starting the games. The Fort Jackson torch bearer will carry the flame, under police escort, from Olympic torch to Olympic torch throughout South Carolina.

The morning of May 3 is when the games will begin, with the 193rd's Soldiers and volunteer staff shepherding athletes throughout the fast-paced schedule of swimming, bowling and softball.

Special Olympics track and field will be held at Richland Northeast High School and the gymnastics competition will be held at Allstar Gymnastics.

Sue Maner, vice president of programs and public relations for South Carolina Special Olympics, is overseeing the off-post events, coordinating with coaches and volunteers from around the state.

"As we speak, there are 16 track and field events ongoing for athletes who want to qualify to be at Fort Jackson," she said.

Maner said she will present a ceremonial birthday cake at the opening ceremony.

"We'll have a big old plywood cake to symbolize the occasion," she said. "We've been doing this for 40 years so there ought to be some acknowledgment."

Lt. Col. Randall Harris, 3rd Battalion, 13th Infantry Regiment commander, said he was looking forward to hosting this year's Special Olympics.

"Just like Fort Jackson, 3-13 is proud and excited about hosting the 2008 Special Olympics. We look forward to helping with this great mission. I know it's going to be great for the families and athletes and it'll be a great success. It's also a great opportunity to give back to the community for their support of the Army," he said.

Because of the scope of this year's games, Col. Kevin Shwedo, Fort Jackson deputy commanding officer, said the need for volunteers is even more immediate.

"We welcome both civilian and military volunteers — from on and off post — to help us welcome these brave and stalwart athletes, of whom we are all so proud," he said.

For information about volunteering, call Fort Jackson Special Olympics Project Officer Capt. Stacy King at 751-4363. For information about South Carolina Special Olympics, call Maner at (803) 772-1555 ext. 24.

Fire! Fire!

Chris Rasmussen
Leader Staff

Fort Jackson and surrounding communities can expect to see some smoke coming from the installation's cantonment area. The only question is, "When?"

The Forestry Branch of the Directorate of Public Works is planning to burn grass and other vegetation in Semmes Lake sometime during the next few weeks before the lake is filled.

"We won't know until the day before because we are looking for the perfect conditions," said Sara Clayborne, fire management officer. "We are looking for a really windy day. Generally, we don't burn in the cantonment area, but there is no way around it for this."

Burning vegetation in the 23-acres lake is only expected to take a couple of hours. "We will not be able to reduce all of it, but we feel there is a good bit dry enough to burn," Clayborne said.

Forestry officials are also waiting for the Army Corps of Engineers to complete construction of a 70-foot fishing pier, which is expected to be completed next week.

Portions of Semmes Road and Marion Avenue will be closed during the burn and the fire department will monitor the fire and protect the new pier.

Semmes Lake was drained in November 2006 to allow for the construction of a new dam. The $1.2 million project entailed replacing a drainage pipe underneath Semmes Road, which acts as an emergency spillway for the dam, with a larger pipe. The dam was beginning to fail because the pipe had a large crack in it and dirt was starting to fill it up. The problem also caused Semmes Road to sink where it passed over the drainage pipe.

The lake will be restocked with a balanced population of large-mouth bass, brim and sunfish. Once the lake is restocked, fishing will be prohibited for a year to 18 months to allow the species a chance to grow.

getting it before a Soldier is deployed overseas."

So far this tax season, the Fort Jackson Tax Center has prepared and filed more than 1,240 returns and helped more than 2,000 customers, Dodd said.

The center has also helped its customers save $107,795 in preparation fees and obtain $1,776,000 in refunds. The center helped file 1,300 forms in 2007.

Customers are asked to bring an ID and all of their documentation, including their 2006 returns and 2007 W2 forms.

To avoid a wait, customers are advised to go to the center early in the morning or call for an appointment.

"I was surprised by how quick it was," said Pvt. Kelly Biel-McNeil, Company C, 187th Ordnance Battalion, who has been filing taxes since she was 17. "We timed it, and it only took them five minutes."

The two most common services offered at the center are getting help filing for an extension and filling out power of attorney forms. Those who do not have all of the proper forms needed by the deadline, should file for an extension.

The Fort Jackson Tax Center is open 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. For an appointment, call 751-5829.

Customer Service Corner

Issues sought; CSC new format

Christina Garza
Community FIRST Coordinator

This week's article features a new format the Customer Service Corner will use for issues surfaced from the Fort Jackson Community.

The format is as follows, and this week is about veterinary services on Fort Jackson.

Title: Veterinary Services Payment Plan

Scope: Veterinary services on post do not have a payment plan set up for those who are unable to pay their bill in full. Sometimes medical emergencies for family pets surface, which require immediate attention. Some families are unable to take care of their pets because of the cost of the available veterinary care.

Recommendation: A payment plan be instituted as an option for payment of medical emergencies or expensive procedures for family pets.

Response: The Veterinary Treatment Facility on Fort Jackson does not handle emergency cases, only routine preventive medicine such as vaccines. The only surgical procedures handled are spaying and neutering. There are no medical emergencies or high-cost procedures associated with the clinic.

Community members are encouraged to submit any issues they may have for the third quarter of fiscal year 2008 through Community FIRST, a process designed to identify and resolve issues that address the services provided for the Fort Jackson community on a quarterly basis.

Resolving issues each quarter helps the community leaders identify and resolve issues continuously, rather than once a year. It is important to have a cross-section of submissions from the community to ensure each constituent group is reached and that their concerns are addressed.

During the first month of the quarter, issues are requested and collected. Issues can be anything affecting a community member (Soldiers, family members, civilian employees, retirees and veterans) that cannot be fixed by the Interactive Customer Evaluation.

In the second month of the quarter, the issues received are validated and distributed to the directorates or organizations responsible for resolution. Issues are worked and completed or remain active.

In the third month, the Installation Action Council convenes, reviews active issues and then votes whether to forward an issue to the installation senior commander or deem the issue unattainable.

This is an opportunity as a community member, to actively participate in improving customer service on Fort Jackson. Any issues or areas of concern can be submitted to the Customer Management Services office, online at <http://www.jackson.army.mil/WellBeing/Survey.htm> or can be dropped by the office at 3499 Daniel St., next to the north side of Darby Field.

Submitted issues can be viewed or new issues submitted through the Customer Management Services Web site, whether it affects Fort Jackson or the entire Army; feedback is important.

Help the community by submitting issues and recommendations online at <http://www.jackson.army.mil/WellBeing/wellbeing.htm>. Click on "Submit an Issue or Recommendation" or click on the AFAP Logo to submit an issue.

ICE Appreciation

The garrison congratulates Finance Customer Service Section of the Defense Military Pay Office and the American Red Cross Office on Fort Jackson. They have achieved a 4.89 and a 4.83 percent rating, respectively, in employee/staff attitude out of a possible 5.0, for a 12-week period. This is an outstanding performance in customer satisfaction.

Cadre demonstrates Soldiering skills to students

Spc. Joshua Davis
1st Battalion, 34th Infantry Regiment

Students from Dent Middle School recently learned that Soldiers are people, too. About a dozen permanent-party Soldiers from 1st Battalion, 34th Infantry Regiment participated in the school’s Multicultural Diversity Awareness Day March 20 with static displays and demonstrations.

“It was a great way to teach the students about some of the Army’s basic Soldiering skills,” said Chaplain (Capt.) Guenter Nyanankpe, the battalion’s chaplain. “We were able to give a small glimpse to these students about what the Army is all about.”

The Soldiers set up five stations for the students. They included weapons, grenades, tactical vehicles, NBC gear and protective gear.

Gary Randall, Dent principal, said that he knows the Soldiers at Fort Jackson do more than protect and serve.

“It’s great to have the Soldiers reinforce both positive male and female role models for our children,” Randall said. “There is a long-standing tradition between this school and Fort Jackson that serves a real purpose.”

Several teachers were overheard thanking Soldiers for being at the event.

“The students had a good time interfacing with the Soldiers of 1-34, and they really learned something as well,” said Kelly Brown, Advancement Via Individual Determination teacher at Dent.

“Diversity Awareness Day helps all types of people come together and better understand each other,” said Marc-James Redwine, eighth grader at Dent. “My dad is in the Army and it takes a lot of support from a Soldier’s family members to help make his or her assignment successful.

“The cadre and drill sergeants from 1-34 were polite and the Soldiers enjoyed answering questions from the student body,” Marc-James said. “It’s more difficult to be a Soldier than most people think.”

“The gear is so heavy,” said Nyjee Smith, 11, who tried on Nuclear, Biological and Chemical masks. “I got a chance to throw some (simulated) grenades and that was cool!”

Nyanankpe said the Army displays received a great response from the students.

“I think the students enjoyed learning about what Soldiers do every day,” Nyanankpe said. “We were excited to be a part of the school’s activities and to be able to share the Army story with so many.”

MARKING TIME

Motorcycle roaring with history

The U.S. Army Adjutant General Corps Museum on Fort Jackson is home to one of the most dependable vehicles from World War II — a restored 1941 Harley-Davidson WLA motorcycle. They were used by couriers and in postal operations. It came equipped with a rifle holster, ammunition boxes, luggage rack and blackout covers on the lights. This motorcycle proved to be highly reliable and sturdy. By war's end, Harley Davidson had sent almost 90,000 machines to battle. This motorcycle was discovered in an abandoned warehouse in northern Africa.

Have a historical tidbit to share?

The Leader is seeking historical stories and photos to use in its weekly Marking Time section. Retirees, veterans and community members with an interesting fact, story, photo, artifact, etc. pertaining to Fort Jackson should e-mail fjleader@jackson.army.mil.

ARMY NEWS

Soldier's remains recovered after four years

Sgt. 1st Class William Quiett
Army News Service

BAGHDAD — The remains of Staff Sgt. Keith Matthew Maupin were recovered March 20 northwest of Baghdad by elements of the Multi-National Division — Baghdad's 2nd Stryker Cavalry Regiment, which is based out of Vilseck, Germany.

The recovery capped four years of intensive effort by MND-B Soldiers and multiple joint and interagency organizations. The Soldiers of 2nd SCR were able to recover Maupin's remains by treating the recovery as a criminal investigation and employing appropriate investigative techniques.

"Since beginning operations in Abu Ghraib, we made finding Staff Sgt. Maupin a top priority to clearly demonstrate to every service member, and every family, that we will never leave a fallen comrade," said Col. John RisCassi, the commander of the 2nd SCR.

The Soldiers of 1st Battalion, 21st Infantry Regiment "Gimlets," who are based out of Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, and currently under the tactical control of 2SCR, performed the actual recovery mission.

The recovery was the result of the Gimlets relentless pursuit of intelligence leads and simultaneous leveraging of the new relationships made possible by reconciliation, officials said.

"We were able to produce great synergy by pursuing this investigation in conjunction with our ongoing targeting efforts," said Lt. Col. Omar Jones, executive officer, 2nd SCR.

Many of the terrorists involved in this incident have continued to attack coalition forces and the Iraqi people for the past four years, he added. The 2nd SCR identified and detained the vast majority of these insurgents in recent weeks. In addition to recovering Maupin's remains, they have been removing a significant threat to the security of the Iraqi people.

Though honored to return a fallen comrade to his family, leaders said the Dragons of 2nd SCR and Gimlets of 1-21 Inf. Regt. will continue to pursue those responsible for Maupin's death and all who threaten the security of Abu Ghraib.

New policy takes effect for OERs and NCOERs

Human Resources Command
American Forces Press Service

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — On Tuesday, the U.S. Army's Human Resources Command began requiring all Officer Evaluation Reports and Noncommissioned Officer Evaluation Reports to be electronically submitted using "My Forms" on Army Knowledge Online.

The new requirement was announced in MILPER Message 08-51, which notes that rating officials must sign evaluations with digital signatures using the Common Access Card and use the latest form versions.

"The Army made this decision in order to prepare units to submit evaluations in a fully electronic environment. We're laying the groundwork for a smooth transition to Defense Integrated Military Human Resources System (known as DIMHRS) in October 2008," said Lt. Col. Chelsea Ortiz from the Evaluations Systems Office at HRC.

Dario Velasquez, who runs the Reports Processing Branch for Regular Army and Reserve OERs and NCOERs, said he looks forward to the change.

"Electronic submission is reliable, quick, and provides virtually error-free documents for final review and processing at the HQDA level," Velasquez said. "Because we're getting a better product from the units, our examiners are able to push the evaluation to the Soldier's Official Military Personnel Records File more quickly."

Additional benefits of completing evaluations within the My Forms Portal include:

- Digital signatures eliminate the need to print hard-copy forms.

- Forms have embedded wizards, which help rating officials navigate through the process, providing guidance and policy.

- Administrative information on both rated officer and rating officials can be automatically filled from the Integrated Total Army Data Base.

- With just one key stroke, rating officials have ability to create an evaluation report from the counseling/support forms. All required information transfers from the counseling to the evaluation form, reducing the need to cut and paste or retype data.

- Rating officials route forms behind My Forms and use tracking to monitor the history of the form throughout the process. Users may also e-mail forms outside the portal but they lose the benefits of My Forms' tracking.

- Reduced need to expend resources on special mailing costs.

- Eliminates printed copies and paper without compromising the personal nature of evaluations.

Exceptions to this requirement include evaluations from deployed units; Army National Guard NCOERs, which are mailed to state and territory points of contact; and classified OERs and NCOERs. These reports may be submitted in paper format.

Deployed units continue to retain all available options for military evaluation submission, to include electronic submissions in My Forms, mailing hard copy reports and OERs by e-mail (once established as an authorized sender).

All other units must submit OERs and NCOERs electronically or request an exemption to use paper format per guidance provided in the MILPER Message.

"Go to our Web site, read the training slides and go to My Forms. For units that have never tried submitting evaluations electronically, the best way is to just get out there and do it," said Sgt. Maj. Arlita Crawford, chief, NCOER Policy.

Training on the total My Forms process and specific aspects of electronic submission of evaluations is available under the "What's New?" heading at the Evaluations, Selections and Promotions Web page at www.hrc.army.mil/site/Active/TAGD/MSD/msdweb.htm.

Those with questions on this directive should refer to the MILPER message first, and if that does not address their questions, officials at HRC can be contacted at tapcmse@conus.army.mil.

Army Family Covenant Update

Expo planned

Annette McLeod
Soldier and Family Readiness

Army Community Service Soldier and Family Readiness Program, through the Army Family Covenant initiatives, will sponsor its second Annual Art of Prevention Expo from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., April 15 at the MG Robert B. Solomon Center.

This event is held during the National Child Abuse Prevention Month and National Sexual Assault Awareness Month. The Prevention Expo is an opportunity for community organizations to get together, network and share resources and information with Soldiers and their families.

Last year, more than 23 organizations participated in this event. The Expo participants are committed to children. They have bonded together with the goal of improving the lives of children and families, and in the process, change the way that government, communities and families work together.

The Fort Jackson and local community members/participants will have the opportunity to drop in throughout the day to take part in activities and visit informational booths.

The Keynote speaker is Chiccy Baritone, a poet from Greenville.

There will also be workshops: How to Work with the Angry Child; Safe Surfing Solutions for Kids; Domestic Violence and Children; and Creative Methods to Decrease Stress.

The most recent Department of the Army report on child fatalities is a sobering reminder of the need for an effective, community-wide response. To achieve change, communities need an “engine” — a key organization to bring all the players together.

On Fort Jackson, the ACS SFRP is the community liaison for this event. For additional information or to participate in this event, call 751-6325.

CYS gets foolish over dogs in April

Theresa O’Hagan
Morale, Welfare
and Recreation

He never barks to wake the dead in the middle of the night. His coat is always smooth and shiny. His breath is like perfume and he never, ever leaves puddles on the floor. If this is your dog, the CYS April Fool-ish Dog Show is not the dog show for him (or her).

Once again, CYS will present the wackiest dog show ever seen on Fort Jackson 1:30-4 p.m., Sunday at the Youth Sports Complex.

Last year’s show was a bow wows-ing success, said Beverly Metcalfe, Youth Education and Support Services director who “paws-ed” to speak to The Leader about the event.

Forty-one dogs of all shapes and sizes participated and a tail-waggin’ time was had by both the two-legged and four-legged participants.

Competition will be “ruff” and could get a little hairy. All participants will receive a “doggy bag” for participating, but first, second and third place awards will be given in the following categories:

Hairiest Dog
Best Vocal Performance
Least Obedient
Best Costume
Longest Tail
Owner/Pet Look-A-Like
Celebrity/Pet Look-A-Like
Longest Ears
Most Unique
Best Frisbee Catcher
Best Wag
Cutest Puppy
Most Mysterious Heritage
Best Senior
Ya Gotta Love Me
Most Diva-Like

There will also be a separate show for those children who don’t actually own a live dog, but have a real live “stuffed” dog. Categories for that show include:

Least Obedient
Squeeziest
Most Inanimate Biggest
Most Resembling A Real Dog

Show hours will be 2-4 p.m., with registration beginning at 1:30 p.m. Contestants are urged to pre-register for the event. Registration is free with a donation of old towels, blankets, dog toys, leashes or treats.

All proceeds will be donated to the Fort Jackson Veterinary Clinic or Pets, Inc. Pre-registration packets may be picked up at any CYS location or at the CYS Central Enrollment Office in the Joe E. Mann building, 3392 Magruder Ave. For more information, call 751-3053.

TRICARE offers resources to help beneficiaries get health care info

Patricia Opong-Brown
TRICARE Management Activity

FALLS CHURCH, Va. — How do TRICARE beneficiaries access information about their benefits? TRICARE Management Activity officials want to remind beneficiaries there are many available resources.

“It is a high priority for us to make sure beneficiaries know they have several ways to get information on their TRICARE benefit as well as assistance,” said Army Maj. Gen. Elder Granger, deputy director, TMA.

The “first line of defense” for benefit information should always be the regional Managed Care Support Contractor toll-free numbers, but TRICARE Service Centers are a great option for beneficiaries who want up-close-and-personal service.

TSC representatives are available to assist beneficiaries with enrollments, finding TRICARE network providers, referrals and authorizations, claims and much more on a walk-in basis. Most TSCs are located inside, or in close proximity to, military treatment facilities and are managed in the United States by the MCSCs.

TSCs are also located throughout the world. In Europe, the Pacific, Latin America and Canada, TSCs are contracted by the TRICARE Area Offices — which are additional resources for beneficiary assistance overseas.

After beneficiaries have already sought assistance from the regional toll-free lines or at a TSC, they can contact a Beneficiary Counseling and Assistance Coordinator.

There are nearly 900 BCACs around the world, and they wear many hats.

Serving at each TRICARE Regional Office and most military treatment facilities, BCACs can help beneficiaries with a range of needs, including answering questions about medical coverage and benefits, coordinating with regional contractors on health care-related issues and much more.

Registrars play significant role in battle against cancer

National Cancer Registrars Association

Cancer registrars around the world will join their colleagues and local community leaders to commemorate the annual National Cancer Registrars Week, which begins Monday.

This year’s theme, “Cancer Registrars: More than Just Statistics,” reflects the expansive role of cancer registrars and cancer registry data across the spectrum of cancer-related initiatives.

As the Trust for America’s Health reported in its analysis of state cancer registries, “Information is the most vital tool for finding ways to more effectively treat and prevent the disease.”

“Cancer registrars are at the core of the nation’s anti-cancer efforts, so it is imperative that the information we provide is of the highest standard,” said Sally Kruse, NCRA president. “We are data collection and management experts with the training, specialized skills and eye for detail to provide the high-quality data required in all avenues of cancer statistics and research.”

Cancer registrars work in the complete range of cancer treatment and research settings managing a wide range of demographic and medical data on people with cancer.

The information is submitted to state and national cancer registries for use in research, treatment and prevention initiatives, enabling cancer programs to accurately determine cancer patient populations, measure outcomes of treatment and survival and formulate plans for quality improvement.

“As we focus on the contributions of cancer registrars, it is especially important that we also highlight the growing demand for trained and qualified cancer registrars as key components of all cancer control initiatives,” Kruse said. “We must work together with our allies in the health community to ensure that we continue to recruit and train qualified candidates to enter into the cancer registry field.”

Quality cancer data is central to the nation’s cancer fighting efforts and cancer registrars are the first link in capturing data on patients diagnosed with cancer. This data often results in the publication of groundbreaking research, such as the American Cancer Society’s annual cancer statistics.

Key results in the study are based on data from two national registries—the Surveillance, Epidemiology and End Results (SEER) program of the National Cancer Institute and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention’s National Program of Cancer Registries. For more information on cancer registrars e-mail info@ncra-usa.org.

Testing helps gauge what students need to learn

Ruth Russell

School Liaison Officer

Recently, on-post schools held TerraNova testing for children in third through sixth grades. All schools in the Department of Defense Education Activity use the TerraNova test to evaluate student performance for children between third and 11th grades.

The TerraNova is a norm referenced standardized test. A test that is norm referenced is one in which the results are compared to the results of a peer group that takes the test prior to it being available to the schools. Essentially, the test taker's score is compared to the normative group.

For a test to be considered a standardized test, it is administered and scored in a consistent manner. Students take the test under the same circumstances. The exact same directions are given to all children from a script and strict guidelines are followed to ensure all children have the same testing experience.

In May, children in South Carolina public schools will be taking a norm referenced standardized test, called the Palmetto Achievement Challenge Test. The PACT, like the TerraNova, evaluates performance in reading/language arts, math and science.

Both tests are based on curriculum standards (what is being taught). Neither the PACT nor the TerraNova affect a child's report card grades; however, they both assist parents, teacher and students in determining what is working well for the student and where the student may need more help.

The TerraNova is aligned with the DODEA curriculum standards, which can be viewed at www.dodea.edu/curriculum/index.cfm. The PACT is aligned with the South Carolina curriculum standards, which can be viewed at ed.sc.gov/agency/offices/cso/

Students with disabilities that have IEPs (Individualized Education Plan) or a 504 Plan may still take the PACT. However, they might be provided accommodations such as small group or individual testing. Schools may determine that some children with significant cognitive disabilities should take the South Carolina Alternate Assessment (SC-Alt) instead of the PACT.

Student PACT results are placed in one of four designated categories.

Advanced: The student exceeded expectations for student performance based on the curriculum standards.

Proficient: The student has met expectations for student performance based on the curriculum standards.

Basic: The student has met minimum expectations for student performance based on the curriculum standards.

Below Basic: The student has not met minimum expectations for student performance based on the curriculum standards.

Students in third through eighth grade who score below basic in any area are provided an individual Academic Plan for Students. Parents will be invited to a meeting with the teacher at the beginning of the new school year to establish a plan of action to assist the student in making progress.

Schools in SC are evaluated on the number of category improvements students make. This is one of the criteria in which improvement reflects on a school's Annual Yearly Progress or AYP. AYP is part of a district's evaluation in the No Child Left Behind Act.

Besides a child's performance level in each of the core subject areas, the PACT will also provide a "scale score." This score is formed by taking the raw score and adjusting it for variations in difficulty. If one year, the test was harder than the previous year, the scores would not reflect poorer performance on the part of the student.

Parents of students taking the PACT will receive a plotted graph for each subject area that will show where their child fits compared to other same-age students who took the PACT. The performance levels are also found on this graph.

TerraNova results will also provide a plotted graph. This graph will indicate high, moderate or low mastery of subject standards. A student's national percentile will also be indicated in a bar graph. This number indicates the percentage of students nationally that a child's performance exceeded. For example, a 70 indicates that a child did better than 70 percent of other children tested nationally.

TerraNova also provides a number called an Objectives Performance Index. The OPI is an estimate of the number of items a child would be expected to answer correctly making allowances for varying degrees of difficulty among questions.

The South Carolina State Board of Education provides an information page to help parents understand their children's PACT scores. This can be found at ed.sc.gov/agency/offices/assessment/PACT/parents/index.html. Schools welcome parents' questions about their children's PACT performance. The teacher or guidance office is the point of contact for questions or concerns.

To get the best and most accurate evaluation from a standardized test, students need to be at their peak during testing. Parents can help their children prepare by:

- Making sure the child is well rested on testing days.
- Feeding the child a healthful protein-rich breakfast.
- Making sure the child is in school and on time during testing days.
- Focusing on the positive and not pressuring the child to perform. A good attitude has a positive impact on performance.

Although standardized tests help schools evaluate a child's strengths and weaknesses, it is only one component of evaluating student performance. Daily schoolwork, application of skills and knowledge, classroom participation, creativity and grades also provide insights into a student's progress.

Testing is a reality in today's world that demands accountability from schools, but it should not be viewed negatively. Testing can help parents and teachers make sure children get a good education.

CHAPEL

Spring
Message

Chaplain (Maj.) Ibraheem Raheem
Installation Chaplain's Office

Congratulations! We are well into the year and each of us in our own way has begun to question whether “2008 is really that great” after all.

For many of us, it is around this time of the year when we realize that we have “bitten off more than we can chew” with our New Year’s resolutions and ditch them quietly, or catch a terrible case of amnesia about what our resolutions were.

Thankfully, the new year starts a few months before spring, giving us another opportunity to “clean house” and start anew.

Spring is my favorite time of year. It is a time of renewal, beauty and hope.

Spring embraces us after a long, dark and bitter winter season.

Spring defeats the death grip of icy winds and snow storms.

Spring brings life to the earth by thawing out the frozen lakes and streams with its warmth and by quenching the thirst of numerous plants and animals.

Spring unlocks nature’s secret code of the plants and trees, producing countless blossoms of pristine beauty and releasing fragrances and visions we all delight in.

On top of all that, spring showers us with the sunshine of hope that better days are ahead.

Many of us associate renewal with our faith traditions, which echo the profound signs of renewal and hope in nature.

Spring represents a new start after overcoming hardships. When reflecting on Passover, Easter, Eid and many other faith traditions, we draw parallels with lessons of renewal, and hope in the face of tribulations.

Spring affords us an opportunity to reflect on the many ways to celebrate life after the trials of winter. The passage near to me on this topic says: “And after hardships come relief, certainly after hardships come relief.”

This passage reminds us that our sustaining Lord repeatedly brings us out of difficult times into times of rejoicing.

My prayer for you this spring is that you remain steadfast in your faith during the tough times because the rewards for enduring life’s challenges are worthwhile.

I hope this message inspires you to get in tune with nature to “spring forward” and use this joyous season to repair your life, value life’s splendor and strengthen your faith to overcome life’s winter storms.

Many blessings to you as you embrace your second chance at a new start.

Cases of the Week

A fight between two Soldiers was reported to authorities. According to MPs, the Soldiers began to argue, when one Soldier head-butted the other in the face and the second Soldier punched the first. Both were transported to PMO and one was treated for minor injuries.

A Soldier contacted PMO to report his debit card had been stolen and used at the main exchange. The card was stolen by another Soldier and confiscated at the store by store personnel, MPs said.

A civilian was arrested in connection with the theft of a Coach purse at the main exchange. MPs said the civilian removed the purse, worth $158, from the display shelf, concealed it under her clothing and left the store without paying.

The suspect was taken to PMO, processed and released.

Tip of the Week

Army Regulation 600-25, Appendix C states that the same respect should be given to the playing of the national anthem and “To the Color.”

Men wearing civilian clothes and headgear are to face the flag, remove their headgear with the right hand and stand at attention at the first note of music. All other civilians are to face the flag and stand at attention at the first note of music.

Everyone is to remain at attention until the last note of the national anthem or “To the Color” has been played.

If the flag is not in view, one should face the direction of the music.

Take steps to stop unsolicited mail, calls

Capt. Richard L. Donaldson
Legal Assistance Attorney

Many military families find themselves receiving unsolicited mail including pre-approved credit card applications when moving to a new duty station.

In addition, a new phone number often results in a number of calls from telemarketers.

Consumers have the right to reduce the number of unsolicited mailings, calls and e-mails by requesting companies to remove their names from marketing lists and pre-approved credit cards, and by requesting not to sell their credit information.

Telemarketing agencies and credit card companies can easily obtain personal information without permission to send out pre-approved credit card applications. To opt-out of pre-approved credit offer solicitations, call (888) 5-OPTOUT (567-8688).

In addition, consumers should also contact the three major credit bureaus to prevent companies from sharing their names and addresses for promotional services. Once the request is processed, the consumer's name remains on the credit bureau opt-out list indefinitely.

The credit bureaus addresses are:

— Equifax, Inc.; Options; P.O. Box 740123; Atlanta, GA 30374-0123

— Experian Consumer Opt-Out; 701 Experian Parkway; Allen, TX 75013-3715

— TransUnion Name Removal Option; P.O. Box 97328; Jackson, MS 39288-7328

Telemarketing companies and credit card companies can also easily obtain a person's e-mail address without permission. To reduce unsolicited commercial e-mail, visit the Direct Marketing Association Web site at <http://www.e-mps.org/en/> and register online. Once the request is processed, it remains in effect for one year.

The DMA also offers mail and telephone preference services to help reduce direct mail marketing and telemarketing. The DMA registers consumers for five years with direct-mail and telephone marketers. Registering with the DMA, however, does not eliminate mail from list brokers, "Dear Occupant" mailers, local merchants, charities and professional organizations. These organizations must be contacted directly to be deleted from their mailing lists.

To register with DMA, send name, current mailing address, previous mailing address, Social Security number, telephone number, date of birth and signature to the following addresses:

Operation Hours

Fort Jackson's Legal Assistance Office is located in the Office of the Staff Judge Advocate, 9475 Kershaw Road, and is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Mondays through Thursdays. Appointments can be made by calling 751-4287.

The office accepts walk-ins for living wills, health care powers of attorney and durable powers of attorney, 1:30-4 p.m, Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Walk-ins are welcome for general legal questions and are accepted 9-11 a.m., Thursdays.

— For telephone preference service, write to: Direct Marketing Association; P.O. Box 9014; Farmingdale, NY 11735-9014

— For mail preference service, write to: Direct Marketing Association; P.O. Box 9008; Farmingdale, NY 11735-9008

Under the law, everyone has a right to say no to unsolicited mailings, calls and e-mails. If telemarketers continue to contact consumers despite their choice to opt-out, a telemarketing complaint can be filed with the Federal Trade Commission at <http://www.ftc.gov/ftc/consumer/htm>.

For more information on how to stop unsolicited mailings, contact the Fort Jackson Legal Assistance Office.

SSI caps comeback season with playoff win

Chris Rasmussen
Leader Staff

The Soldier Support Institute's basketball team is having a Cinderella season with no pumpkin in sight.

Starting the season 0-8, the team captured the third-seed in the playoffs, and now has won its first postseason game, a 53-46 victory over the 245th Air Traffic Control Squadron Monday at Coleman Gym.

"People had counted us out. Even our own unit counted us out," forward Rosella Scott said. "Our defense has taken us further than we expected."

SSI jumped to an early 15-10 lead in the first half, running the court and posting up for quick shots. The team increased its lead to 21-12, thanks to solid rebounding and some cold shooting by the 245th.

The 245th Swampfoxes appeared to regroup following a timeout late in the first half, trailing, 25-24, at the intermission.

After the break, the Swampfoxes took its first lead, 28-27, with 19:40 left to play. SSI refused to relent and traded baskets with the 245th for most of the second half.

With time running out, SSI put up three, 3-point shots and pulled ahead, 46-40, with 1:49 left, and forcing the 245th to foul.

"They have some really good shooters on that team and we just couldn't cover them," coach Thomas Arthur said. "Our biggest challenge is we don't have a deep bench. We usually have one or two extra guys, if we are lucky."

Scott led SSI in scoring with 29 points, followed by Johnny Woods with 11 points and Arthur Mohead added six points.

Chris Spotts led the 245th with 20 points, Mike Irick had 15 points and Brandon Hudson added 12 points to the effort.

"I like the direction of our team right now going into the playoff," Scott said. "After a poor start we are starting to gel and get a good feeling for how we play together."

The season-ending game for the Swampfoxes is hopefully just a road to a new beginning, Arthur said.

"We have a pretty good group of guys, but we just haven't played together very much," he said. "Next year

Mike Irick, a guard with the 245th Air Traffic Control Squadron, drives past a Soldier Support Institute player, during their 53-46 playoff loss Monday night at Coleman Gym.

we will be back."

Twelve company-level teams began tournament play on Monday, in which 1-13 beat the MPs, 98-47; VSB defeated 187th, 43-40; and 120th beat 3-13, 47-42. On Tuesday, SSI beat 1-13, 52-37 and 120th defeated VSB, 45-40. SSI was slated to play 120th 7 p.m., Wednesday at Vanguard Gym.

The winner of that game will play the winner from the loser's bracket during the championship game 7 p.m., Monday at Coleman Gym.
